ARIA NOIR · MAISON

Website revisions before and after

Jai's feedback of 5 November 2026, in his words, against the site as he reviewed it (staging) and as revised.

Prepared for the build review · 9 November 2026

HOW TO READ THIS

Sources

- Review deck: ARIA NOIR, Website review for the build team, Jai Jind, 5 November 2026. Quoted verbatim.
- Call notes: the 5 November call with Jai, as noted by Rishon in #aria-noir. Jai's quoted words are his; the rest is the note-taker's summary.
- Raviv: Raviv's follow-ups in #aria-noir relaying Jai, 5 November.
- Before: aria-noir-design-staging.vercel.app, the site Jai reviewed, captured 8 November 2026.
- After: the revised build (branch rems-branch, local), captured 9 November 2026. Not yet deployed.

Status keys

DONE built · KEPT Jai asked to keep it · PARTLY part built · NOT YET not built in this pass · NEEDS INPUT waiting on assets or a decision

Jai's three rules

Do more with less

> When a page gets busy it stops being a symphony and becomes noise. One frame, given space, beats six crowded together.

Show exactly what they'll get

> Every image and film must show our real frames, true to shape and colourway. Off-brand or inaccurate imagery is the single biggest risk to the business.

Real people behind the maison

> No purely AI presentation. Human models, real faces on About, real packaging, real craft.

From the call

“Quantum leap.” “Night and day.” “I wasn't expecting to be satisfied today.” “Like a Bond film.” “I haven't seen a brand go this hard.” “Absolutely incredible.” “Say a lot with silence.”

Homepage

> TEST · Hero: still, or test a muted film loop.
>
> REVIEW DECK P.7

DONE Hero is a muted film loop: a 25-second montage of the six frames' clips (ARCA I, ARCA II, AHAVA, MONARCA, MATRIARCA, PATRIARCA). The old still is the poster; reduced motion keeps the still. Montage approach: Rems, 8 Nov.

> ISSUE · Six-tile grid: crowded, off-brand images. NEW · Auto carousel: one frame at a time, blur.
>
> REVIEW DECK P.7-8

PARTLY Carousel built, then removed on Rems's call (8 Nov). The six-tile grid stays; its gutters are black on the homepage and white elsewhere (Rems, 9 Nov). The frame clips live in the hero montage instead.

> Spacing: tiles are too close. Jai wants white space like Meshki, moving between negative space and full space.
>
> CALL NOTES, 5 NOV

DONE Breathing room between every home section; white gutters between collection tiles.

> House Letter: the pop-up with the burning flame is too much animation. The busy animated treatment only looks good for me in the gallery.
>
> CALL NOTES, 5 NOV

DONE The pop-up now appears plainly, no burning flame (Rems, 8 Nov). The house letter section sits on one still photograph instead of the spiralling WebGL sheet.

> KEEP · ARCA II feature + lightbox on white. "Before it exists" image and its hover highlight.
>
> REVIEW DECK P.5, P.7

KEPT Kept as is.

> EXPANDED · "Before it exists": Eternal 8 + pre-order. NEW · Further frame features, one per section. NEW · Journal + Instagram feed.
>
> REVIEW DECK P.7

NOT YET Not built: needs the Eternal 8 renders, the pre-order offer, journal articles and the Instagram feed source.

FOOTER (EVERY PAGE)

> An oversized ARIA NOIR wordmark fills the bottom of every page. It's out of step with high-fashion sites, and the logo is already at the top. Proposed: a small logo variation, such as the monogram, just above Privacy · Terms · Privacy preferences. Subtle wins.
> REVIEW DECK P.9

DONE Giant wordmark removed. The house emblem, small, sits once above the legal row.

> A "Something new is taking shape" sign-up sits after the footer. Remove the block after the footer.
>
> REVIEW DECK P.9

PARTLY Kept as a pop-up with a plain appear, on Rems's call (8 Nov), instead of removed.

> Careers goes in the footer. Press: a low-key footer link.
>
> CALL NOTES; REVIEW DECK P.19

DONE Footer About group: About, Heritage, Craftsmanship, Press, Careers, Contact.

NAVIGATION AND NAMING

> Nav: "Collections" becomes "Frames" or "The Collection"; "The House" becomes "The Maison".
>
> REVIEW DECK P.15

PARTLY Menu reads The Collection. The section is labelled About everywhere (Rems, 8 Nov), not Maison.

> Instead of putting about in the header please put MAISON and you can put under it About, Heritage, Craftmanship, the book. Also instead of Icons I would just put the text.
>
> RAVIV, #ARIA-NOIR, 5 NOV

DONE Header word is About (Rems, 8 Nov). Opened, the About pages carry tabs: About, Heritage, Craftsmanship, sized as the navbar's words (The Book tab removed, Rems, 9 Nov). Search, Account and Bag are words, each turning to Close.

> Motto: "By designers, for designers." Not "for visionaries".
>
> REVIEW DECK P.15

DONE Motto restored on the About page and its metadata.

> (Rems, 9 Nov) Pressing search should not change the layout of the navbar.
>
> REMS, 9 NOV

DONE The search field now opens over the bar to the left of the words; the bar's height and the words' positions no longer move.

> Two 3D pieces mid-page: old models, bad lighting, off brand. Remove both. The turntable only responds after scrolling past a certain point. After the dark-to-light transition, snap to the store section. The turntable is hard to see: About 15% bigger. In landscape the turntable disappears: Make it work in both orientations.

Made to command the room.
A sculptural frame with the weight, presence, and permanence of an heirloom.
Patriarca is the most Piranesi of the five, ruins made to feel larger than the people standing in them.
The idea was never costume. Sharp modern tailoring against two thousand year old stone does more work than a toga ever could.

Made slowly, on purpose.

Each ARCA I frame begins as a solid block of cellulose acetate. It is milled to our drawings, not poured into a mould. Then it is shaped, tumbled for days and polished by hand.

The emblem is a separate piece, gold-plated, with its own tooling. It is set into the acetate.

Fewer frames, made properly, meant to be worn for years.

What it arrives in.

DESCRIPTION —

The second cut, and the widest colourway run in the house: eight, from Noir to Pixie Dust.

Milled from a solid block rather than poured into a mould, which is why the pattern runs through the frame instead of across its surface and why a cut edge holds colour where a moulded one shows a seam.

The Run

Block acetate · one cut, 8 colourways

Made slowly, on purpose.

Each ARCA II frame begins as a solid block of cellulose acetate. It is milled to our drawings, not poured into a mould. Then it is shaped, tumbled for days and polished by hand.

The emblem is a separate piece, gold-plated, with its own tooling. It is set into the acetate.

Fewer frames, made properly, meant to be worn for years.

What it arrives in.

PATRIARCA, buy page

> AR try-on comes out. The free AR looked glitchy and "kills the whole vibe". Replace with images on three head sizes showing the 145 mm width, plus an elegant disclaimer that the frames fit large.
>
> CALL NOTES, 5 NOV

PARTLY Try on buttons removed from every buy page (the /try-on route still exists, unlinked). The Fit row now has a sizing guide with a face diagram (face width, pupil distance, lens depth, in the wording of Jai's /fit/ page), then the frame's measurements including Frame PD, and a note that the frames fit large. Three-head-size images not made yet.

> Size: Desktop PATRIARCA: at least 25% bigger. Quality: Highest resolution possible. Use the new renders for every frame. Motion: No play button (it reads as cheap). It turns slowly on its own when in view, stops when grabbed, and stays still for "reduce motion" users.
>
> REVIEW DECK P.12

DONE Turntables now use Jai's new Blender renders (180 frames, 1600px) for 30 colourways. No play button; turns at 18°/s in view, stops when grabbed, still under reduced motion. PATRIARCA ×1.25 on desktop.

> Quality and packaging section: at the bottom of each product page, modelled on Jacques Marie Mage.
> CALL NOTES, 5 NOV

PARTLY Craft and packaging section on every eyewear buy page: the making copy from the review deck p.18 and four real packaging photos from Jai's photo bank. Copy needs Jai's sign-off (his checklist: "once facts are confirmed").

> Price font looks like Courier: bring it into the serif and sans-serif system.
>
> REVIEW DECK P.21

DONE Prices use proportional figures in the house sans; the slab-footed tabular 1 is gone.

> Stop: Off-brand AI try-on and mockup images. Old, incorrect 3D models with bad lighting. AI images with shifted colour. Mood shots with no product in them.
> REVIEW DECK P.13

PARTLY 2nd Rerun photography wired into AHAVA, MATRIARCA, MONARCA, PATRIARCA campaign and colourway sills (chosen for the product being visible). Every image still needs checking against the physical frame.

> (Rems, 9 Nov) Remove the care guide and all mentions of it.
>
> REMS, 9 NOV

DONE The /care page and every link to it (menu, footer, All pages, search, sitemap, the buy page's care button) removed.
